BEAMAN FAVORS VOTE ON DEKALB MERGER

Henry Beaman, representative-elect from DeKalb county, at a gathering of the DeKalb County League of Men Voters Tuesday night said that quite aside from the merits or disadvantages attendant upon a merger between DeKalb and Fulton counties, it was his opinion that the people of DeKalb should have the right to vote on the subject. A number of the members of the league spoke from the floor at the county courthouse, all expressing themselves to be in favor of the merger, and cited instances to uphold their contention that the county sentiment was overwhelmingly in agreement with them.

About 2,000 cards, petitioning the representatives of the county to introduce at the next session of the general assembly a bill giving to the citizens of DeKalb county the right to hold an election to merge DeKalb with Fulton county have been signed, and 1,500 more have been pledged, B. T. Blackmon, who presided, said. He estimated that the 4,000 petitions which would give them all the power they needed would be obtained. A general committee, formed for the purpose of attending to finance, publicity and similar matters connected with putting before the legislature the sufficient number of petitions was appointed, composed of Mr. Blackmon, D. C. Akers, Hal Lindsey, L. R. Cooley and James H. Venable. Mr. Akers, speaking from the floor, mentioned as some of the advantages to accrue from a merger between the two counties an improvement in the roads and decrease in the taxes and a superior school system. Similarly, other members of the league, who put forth their views, mentioned that the number of counties in Georgia must be reduced to make for an efficient state government, and that, following the lead of Campbell county, DeKalb should merge with Fulton as the next step in bringing about such a desirable condition.

All members who spoke advanced it as their firm conviction that if any of DeKalb county was to be taken into the Fulton county system, all of DeKalb must be so included.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS TO VASSAR GRADS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 9. (AP)—Educated people were urged by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today to take an interest in the economic and governmental problems confronting the nation and world.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed the 284 graduates at the 66th commencement of Vassar College.

He asked for a change in attitude toward governmental business and gave society of the last two generations credit for stimulating interest in legislation. Much of this interest was due to the enfranchisement of women, he said, adding that their vote had made for good and betterment in government.

FARM LOAN LIENS CLAIMED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—The justice department has upheld the contention of the agriculture department that loans made to farmers under the drought relief legislation are subject to a prior lien by the government and cannot be garnished by creditors of farmers in payment of old debts.

Federal attorneys throughout the area where the money has been loaned have been instructed by Attorney-General Mitchell to prosecute such cases whenever they arise.

The first report of an action of this kind reached the department from Texarkana, Ark., where the judge of a state court held the claim of the government was valid.

SOUTH'S POTATO CROP REPORTED FAVORABLE

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—The early potato crop in 10 southern states was said by the agriculture department today to continue to show a favorable prospect generally.

The average condition on June 1 was 80.5 per cent of normal as compared with 71.1 on the same date last year. Excellent yields were reported or expected, particularly in the Atlantic coast states.

The entire commercial early production in 19 states, the department said, is now indicated at 48,527,000 bushels, an increase of 13 per cent over 1930.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM OFFERED BY MILLER

Alabama's Governor Asks Bond Issues of $45,000,000 and Income Tax.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 9. (AP)—Governor B. M. Miller appeared before a joint session of the Alabama legislature today to outline the administration's financial program, which includes a $25,000,000 bond issue for highways, a $20,000,000 issue to liquidate the state's floating debt and income and inheritance taxes.

The governor told the legislators the state's floating debt on October 1, 1931, would amount to slightly more than $19,000,000 and asked that an amendment to the constitution be submitted to the voters for an income tax, a portion of which would retire the bonds for the debt, and the remainder to go to the schools.

A bill was introduced in the house to change the method of execution in capital cases from electrocution to lethal gas, and another to establish a printing plant in Kilby prison to do the state printing by convict labor.

CONSULATE ATTACK DENIED IN DRESDEN

DRESDEN, Germany, June 9. (AP)—Dresden police late tonight declared a previous report that a group of youths had broken two windows of the United States consulate with stones was erroneous.

A number of youths, they said, were attempting a demonstration in the Schloss-Strasse and when they were dispersed they smashed a number of windows in the Saxon State Bank building, on the third floor of which is the American consulate.

The consulate itself was not assailed or damaged, they said.

Evening Clothes Row Climaxed by Knifing

BATON ROUGE, La., June 9. (AP)—Charles W. Hutcheson, 27, a brick mason, was jailed today charged with intent to commit murder, following the slaying of Albert Menet, 22, of Litcher, La., State University freshman football player, at a senior ball last night.

Menet is in a hospital with serious knife wounds on the left side, arm and thigh, which required 49 stitches, but is expected to recover.

The cutting, police say, occurred during an altercation between a group of students and townsmen at the ball, started when one of the students, all of whom were informally dressed, made a remark about the townsmen, who were wearing evening clothes.

Freshness is only one step in getting GOOD COFFEE

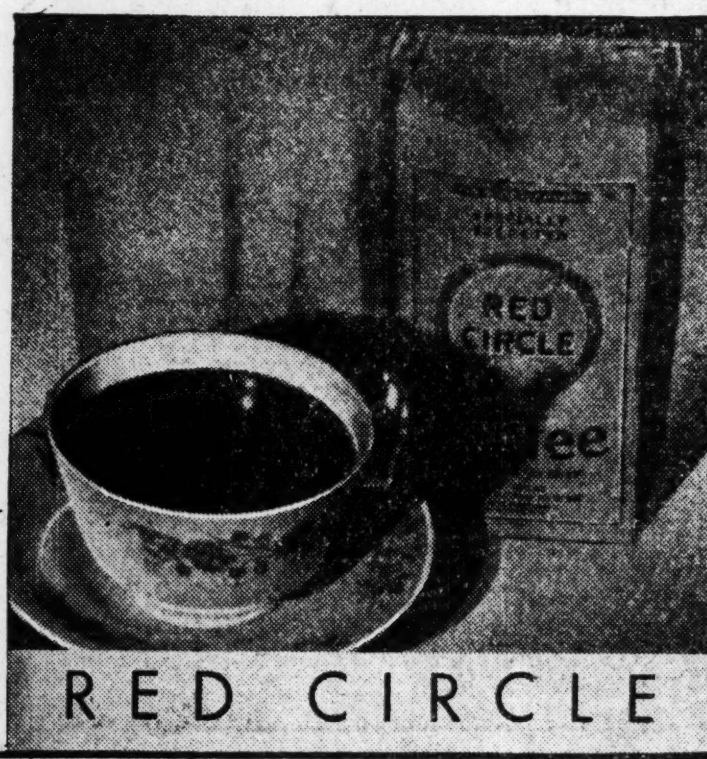

We've learned a lot about coffee in the last 72 years. And the most important thing is . . . that your best coffee is the coffee you like best . . . no matter what it costs or how it is packed

Of course you want your coffee fresh. That's as important as having a coffee that exactly suits your taste. The coffee sells so fast that there's no time for any of it to become stale.

But that's only one point to consider. We've found what people like in coffee—in its flavor, body, aroma and strength. And we found years ago that no one blend can please everyone. So we developed, as you know, three different

Again, here's something else. Have you ever thought what perfect grinding means in making good coffee? Not ready-made, open-the-box grinding, but accurate, carefully adjusted grinding that guarantees your coffee in exactly the right condition to give you perfect results from your

MEANS OF PEACE SOUGHT IN CHINA

Shanghai Leaders Appeal to Nation To Avoid Famine, Bloodshed.

NANKING, June 9.—(AP)—Business leaders of Shanghai appealed to the nation for peace today as discussion among rebel leaders of south China delayed civil war against the national government.

Some 200 leaders of Shanghai appealed to commercial interests of the nation to attempt peaceful settlement, averting repetition of bloodshed, industrial stagnation and famine which many rebellions have brought upon China.

The discord among rebel leaders enabled Nanking officials to dispatch additional troops against bandit armies of the Yangtze Valley. The insurgent government set up in Canton was said to be torn by factional strife and mercenary demands for armed support.

Generals Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-shiang, whose previous revolts against the government were settled some times with money and some times with battles, assumed important roles in the new uprising.

Although the revolution was launched at Canton upon belief they would support it, Yen Hsi-shan was reported demanding $2,000,000 monthly for flinging his northern troops upon the nationalist Yangtze Valley centers, while the Cantonese movement up from the south.

Reports that Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria, Chihli and other north China provinces, had died of typhoid in Peiping were unconfirmed, but caused anxious speculation. Chang's loyalty to the nationalist government, in which he holds a commission as vice-commander-in-chief of military and naval forces, long has been uncertain. His armed power would be a tremendous factor of success to government or rebels.

Alarmed by bandits of raids and robbers, 10 American Methodist Episcopal missionaries fled from Yanning in Fukien to the Foochow seaport.

Honor Student Shot in Holdup Is Awarded Cup

NEW ORLEANS, June 9.—(AP)—Officially, Tremble E. Winborn, Tulane sophomore, may be a bandit, but to his college mates he is still "Windy" Winborn, "a great guy" and an honor student.

Tonight, while he lay on his hospital bed, paralyzed from the hips down from a bullet received as he was attempting to hold up a motor bus driver with an empty pistol, his classmates walked into the hospital proudly bearing the cup won by him as the best student in the class and presented it to his mother.

James H. Gillis, president of the fraternity that offered the cup, made a little presentation speech and the mother fairly burst with emotion. A short distance away the "honor student" lay semi-conscious with an armed policeman standing over his bed as a representative of the law under which he is charged with assault and robbery and assault and attempted robbery.

His mother said he was born at Duck Hill, Miss., and later the family moved to Elliott, Miss., and the boy attended school at Granada, where he was awarded a cash prize for being the best all around student. She said he was active in Y. M. C. A. work and the Baptist Young People's Union at Coldwater, where the father is railroad station master.

Physicians said they did not expect him to live long.

Oil Company Attacks COLBY'S FEE CLAIM

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Efforts of Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, to collect a fee of $333,333 in a new claims case have been met by the charge that he misrepresented facts in the suit to his client, the Inter-ocean Oil Company, Inc. of New York.

The suit is pending in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Through its attorneys, Harvey D. Jacobs and Walter M. Bastian, the Inter-ocean Oil Company contends the $333,333 is excessive in view of the work Colby and his partner did and that the former induced the company to sign a written fee agreement by misrepresenting and concealing facts.

Dr. Michael Hoke is one of the most eminent figures in the field of medicine. With Forrest Adair and the late Joseph C. Greenfield he founded the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, from which has been developed a nation-wide chain of similar institutions.

Dr. Hoke, who is a native of North Carolina, received his medical degree from the University of Virginia in 1895. In 1897 he removed to Atlanta, where he has resided ever since. In the field of remedial surgery he is recognized as a leader, and for many years he was a specialist in orthopedic ailments, particularly those resulting from infantile paralysis.

U.N.C. CONFERS DEGREE ON DR. MICHAEL HOKE

Bowers Warns of Bureau-cracy in Commencement Address.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 9.—(AP)—Claude G. Bowers, New York editor and author, asserted the United States was "moving at a dizzy pace toward the domination of bureaucrats and commissioners hand-picked by power" in an address today to the graduating class of the University of North Carolina.

Bowers, who was the keynote speaker of the 1928 democratic convention, called for a return to Jeffersonian principles in government.

At the conclusion of his address, the university conferred the degree, doctor of laws, upon him.

A like degree was conferred upon Dr. Michael Hoke, of Atlanta.

Dr. Hoke, an orthopedic surgeon whose work with crippled children has received world-wide recognition, is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina and a native of this state.

The degree, doctor of divinity, was conferred upon Dr. Marion Timothy Plyler, of Greensboro, editor of the North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Degrees were also conferred upon 365 students.

University officials made known that it had been planned to confer the degree, doctor of laws, upon Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University, but because of an illness Dr. Few was unable to be present and the degree was not conferred.

Sand Fly Revealed as New Cause Of Hay Fever, Doctors Are Told

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—(AP)—The treatment injects into the patient's skin the largest amount of the pollen extract which will stop just short of producing hay fever. Once a month for the rest of the summer this dose is repeated, and frequently saves further hay fever. Most persons require repetition of the treatment each summer.

The exhibit lists three classes of offenders, tree pollens, grasses and ragweds, treatment against tree hay fever is furnished by a composite extract of all their pollens. The two worst offenders are timothy hay in spring and ragweed beginning in August and extending through the fall. They are rated as about equally bad.

Chemical analysis has not fully identified the nature of the substance in pollen causing hay fever. It is obtained by washing the "fat" off the pollen in ether and dissolving the remaining material in water.

Physicians Comment.

President Judd, in his address, said:

"There was a time not long ago when the physician, in talking with his patient or with the relatives of his patient, would use medical terms almost exclusively. He seemed especially happy if he could employ Latin expressions.

"Instead of accomplishing his object of impressing others with his wisdom, however, I think it increased the uncertainty and mystery concerning medicine in the minds of the individual patients.

"On reason that charlatans and irregular practitioners are able to continue their practices is that there is still so much uncertainty and mystery about disease. We cannot hope to be rid of this sort of thing until the mystery is cleared up. We can help society a great deal, however by utilizing every effort at our command to educate people along medical lines."

'Dixie' Originated From Bank Notes, Expert Explains

PITTSBURGH, June 9.—(AP)—Although the song "Dixie" brings thoughts of something quite different from money, the pre-Civil War $10 bill in New Orleans bank gave the name "Dixie" to the south.

Fred W. Thompson, of the First and Merchants National bank, of Richmond, Va., told the young money experts of the American Institute of Banking convention today.

"The principal bills issued by a bank in New Orleans before the war Between the States were in $10 denominations," he said. "They were engraved in English on one side and in French on the other. On the French side the word 'dix' was very prominent; as you know it means 'ten'."

"The Americans throughout the Mississippi valley who did not know the French pronunciation called the bills 'dixies' and Louisiana came to be known as 'The Land of the Dixies' or 'Dixie Land'." This inspired Dan Emmet, who in 1859 composed the original "Dixie Land" for a minstrel show, then performing in New York. He embodied in it the expression he had so often heard: "I wish I were in Dixie." This song was later written by General Albert Pike, who gave it the battle thrill that makes "Dixie" immortal and stamps the name "Dixie" upon the south.

Eight Americans Received by King In June Court

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Eight American women tonight moved with 400 British debutantes through royal scenes of splendor at the first of two "June courts" at Buckingham palace.

An unusually large representation of the royal circle gathered around King George and Queen Mary in the scarlet and gold room, which was filled with white and pink roses, as their majesties acknowledged the curtsies of those presented.

Around the twin gold thrones the assemblage included the Duke of Gloucester, in a hussar's uniform; Prince George in a naval uniform, and Princess Mary, with her husband, Lord Harewood, in the scarlet uniform of the guards.

The Americans, who made their bow before British royalty, were: Mrs. Charles E. Van Vleet Jr., of New York; Mrs. Cassel R. St. Albans, of New York; Mrs. George Nesbit, of Washington; Helen McCann, of New York; Mrs. H. S. Lehr, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Frederick W. Hill, of New Haven; Mrs. Lester E. Grant, of Denver, and Barbara Childs, of Norfolk, Conn.

Queen Mary's gown was of eastern blue, with a train to match, and across her corsage of deep blue was the Ribbon of the Garter. Magnificent diamonds glittered against this blue background and other diamonds formed her tiara.

JUDGE HOLDS GROUND ON KIRKLAND SENTENCE

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 9.—(AP)—The state was defeated today in its attempt to impose a sterner sentence upon Virgil Kirkland for the slaying of Arlene Draves.

For the second time the 20-year-old Gary youth stood before Circuit Judge Grant Crumacker and heard himself sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the state reformatory at Pendleton. It was the same punishment decreed by the Porter county court last May 27 after his conviction on charges of assault and battery with intent to rape the girl he took to a fatal drinking party in Gary last November.

Prosecutor Robert Estill, of Lake county, said later he would drop the charges against Henry Shirk and Leon Stanford, indicted with Kirkland, David Thompson and Paul Barton, also indicted with Kirkland, will be tried for assault and battery with intent to rape and if convicted, he will recommend a suspended sentence of six months in jail, he said.

THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA OF PROSPERITY IS SEEN BY PUBLIC SCHOOL AND COLLEGE GRADUATES WHO ARE NOW ENROLLING AT THE SOUTHERN SHORTHAND AND BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

Twenty Thousand High School Graduates Agree

Founded sixty-five years ago, having educated and sent to commercial positions over 30,000 young men and young women, indorsed and recommended by thousands of merchants, bankers, lawyers, doctors, corporations and others, the Southern Shorthand and Business University bids for the patronage of ambitious and worthy young people who are now being graduated from the academic schools and colleges, and who want and deserve superior advantages while making preparation for commercial careers.

A short time ago an association of private business schools conducted an inquiry among twenty thousand high school graduates to discover their attitude on the question of education after high school. These graduates submitted papers in which they emphatically indorsed for themselves and for all high school graduates this idea—first finish high school, next, take a thorough business course, then attend college or university, if possible.

Here are some of the arguments of these young people in their own language, and some substance that they are well worth the public's attention. The quotations might be indefinitely extended, but the substance of the thought of these clear-thinking young people is expressed in the quotations given below.

After High School.

"Since this is a business age, everybody ought to know something about business, and the right time to get a business education is immediately after high school and before college or university—and emphatically before taking a little job which will probably condemn the worker to mediocrity as long as he lives."

Of Great Value.

"The high school graduate who wants to go on to college will find a knowledge of the business subjects, and particularly of shorthand and typing, to be of very great value to him in his college course, both as a means of taking and transcribing notes and also as a means of earning his way through school in case it is necessary for him to be self-supporting. Naturally this training in the commercial subjects must be had immediately after high school graduation."

A Universal Necessity.

"In considering the question of when to secure a business education—what everybody acknowledges as a universal necessity—it is well to remember that the ordinary high school graduate is rather young to go to college, and that as a usual thing, he has scarcely begun to study intensively, to act upon his own initiative. In the private business school standards of all kinds are high, and accuracy, intensity of effort, and prompt accomplishment are particularly stressed. The student who has had a year of this kind of work will accomplish much more in college than he could possibly do without the training in self-reliance, in the organization of his own efforts, and in the habit of accurate thinking, which he necessarily acquires in a business course."

Insurance Against Distress.

"Figures show that a large number of college students are unable to complete their courses. Those who drop out are usually unprepared for self-support. A business education secured immediately after high school is complete insurance against this type of economic distress."

Can Find a Way.

"A very large percentage of high school graduates are unable to continue their work in institutions of higher learning, but most if not all of them can find a way to spend a year in a good private business school—and it is not difficult to prove statistically that the business school graduate frequently outdistances the college graduate whose course has failed to include an adequate amount of vocational training."

Preparation Necessary.

"It would hardly seem necessary to argue the futility of attempting to succeed in business today without special training, because business is just as highly organized as are any of the professions, and demands just as much preparation for outstanding success. For the high school student to take a job without first meeting the necessary basic preparation for promotion means that he will be tied all his life to a task that will afford him neither pleasure nor profit."

A GRATEFUL GRADUATE GIVES HIGH PRAISE

Conyers, Ga., May 29, 1931.

Mr. L. W. Arnold, President, Southern Shorthand & Business University, Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Sir:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you and your faculty for the many courtesies shown me while a scholar in your Business College. I will never cease being grateful to all of you. I consider my business training received in your school a great service.

I am now doing stenographic work and enjoy it. It is all very interesting and I owe this to the training I received in your school. For I was taught so thoroughly this type of work. In this day of highly complex conditions, all business knowledge is certain to be of great service at all times.

Wishing you and yours the greatest success, I am,

Respectfully,

MILDRED BOWEN.

The equipment of this school, its facilities for placing graduates in positions, its general standing in the community, its management, and its educational standards are recommended to young people whom it may invite to student membership.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF ACCREDITED COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS.

Time Flies; Grasp It While You May

You are 18 years old, possibly 20; somebody suggests that in 20 more years you will be 40. You decide the idea. You can't imagine that 20 years will ever pass. Twenty years seem to you like an eternity—but be assured that time is winged and maintains a steady, relentless pace.

Your opportunities will soon be past, because opportunities belong to youth. If you wait until you are 40 to achieve something worthwhile, you will end your days in disappointment. Now—right now—is your time, and your only time, to lay a foundation upon which to build for tomorrow—and don't forget for a moment that you cannot build without a foundation. Make full use of the days, weeks, and months as they pass, they will never come your way again.

Trained Mind Marketable.

A good salesman seeks to market his goods where there is use for them—also, he undertakes to provide what the market wants.

Most young folks are sales people, and they have their services to market. If they are wise, they will do one of two things—sell whatever they have in an established market, or equip themselves with that type of product for which there is a market.

There is a demand everywhere for manual labor and whoever wants to sell in that market will always find a buyer for his goods—but his bargain is generally a hard one. There is also a better market for the product of the trained mind, and the wise young man or young woman will prepare to sell in this market. Many young people are now being trained at the Southern Business College, and these will find a market for their services.

For Business Success.

Why get an education? There are two fundamental answers. First, young people should be educated in order that they may be self-supporting in this day of intense, intelligent competition. Second, they should be educated in order to be prepared for the duties of citizenship. Isn't it rather important, then, that any contemplated course of study should be required to answer in the affirmative these two questions?

Will you provide an education that will promote economic independence? Will you provide an education that will enable the graduate to accept the obligations of the social organization to which he belongs and discharge them intelligently?

A business education answers both of these questions correctly. Go to school with a purpose—don't merely go to school. The Southern's students stand with the purpose to attain Business Success.

Now Is the Time.

In addition to selecting the right course and the right school, there is the equally important matter of starting to school at the right time. Untold thousands of people are now wearing their lives out in blind alleys because they did not go to school at the right time—they made the fatal mistake of assuming that an education might be had next year or the next year, or perhaps.

Thoughtful young people are preparing now so that they may be ready for action—intelligent action—when business calls. High school students last week are Southern Business College students this week. Make the start now; a long vacation will make you lazy, perhaps.

If the Southern seems to overstress the importance of entering school at the right time, bear in mind that it has seen thousands of young men and

BIG FIRM PRAISES SOUTHERN'S GRADUATES

J. M. High Company, Atlanta, Georgia, June 6, 1931.

Mr. L. W. Arnold, President, Southern Shorthand & Business University, Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Mr. Arnold:

My advice to young people is to equip themselves for some special line of work. There is no vocation that has such a universal demand as that of secretarial and modern accounting, and at so small a cost.

We have had a number of your students in our office and have found them exceptionally well trained. We know of no business university that offers better opportunities.

We think the present is always the time for young people to prepare themselves for their life's work.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours very sincerely,

J. M. HIGH COMPANY, G. C. Jones, Vice President and Treasurer.

young women slip into mediocre places in life because of their failure to grasp Opportunity as it passed.

Plainly, there is just one time to attend school successfully, and that is in the early years of life. Now is always the best time.

After graduation from high school, young people are inclined to believe that they ought to have time to conduct a year at work or at leisure. Such a plan carried out almost invariably results in the ruining of an otherwise promising career. The student who permits unnecessary interruptions in the process of acquiring his education, exposes himself to the very great danger of losing his interest in education, in addition to which he breaks the thread of continuity that would otherwise make his program constant and symmetrical.

Civil Service Positions Offer Good Remuneration

Authentic information concerning Civil Service employment is presented below for the benefit of young people who may be interested in that field of work.

The information offered is taken largely from bulletins issued by the United States Civil Service Commission.

There are approximately 1,700 different kinds of work represented in different governmental departments, and at the beginning of 1930 there were 589,145 employees under the direction of the Civil Service Commission.

The Civil Service Commission provides employees for federal positions in Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Guam, Samoa, and the Virgin Islands, as well as in the United States.

Appointments to positions, except those filled by the President of the United States, and certain positions of executive, confidential, or fiduciary character, are made through examination and certification by the Civil Service Commission.

Examinations are held in every state and territory, and are usually held as near as possible to the places of employment.

Among the positions in which the graduate of the Southern would be likely to be interested are the following:

Senior stenographer, $1,620 a year.
Junior stenographer, $1,440 a year.
These examinations are open to citizens of the United States between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

Other examinations that have recently been held and for which more candidates may later be needed are Principal Accountant, $3,900 to $4,000; Accountant, $3,200 to $3,700; Junior Calculating Machine Operator, $1,440; Junior Auditor, Income Tax Unit, $2,300.

There are many other types of positions for which special training in the business subjects will qualify. The Southern quotes Paragraph 67 from Bulletin 2346, because of its interest to prospective students of business courses:

"The prospects of appointment are much better for those who qualify for positions which require special knowledge or training than for those who pass the general clerical examinations. For some technical, professional, and scientific positions there is an actual shortage of eligibles. Competent stenographers and typists have better prospects for appointment than applicants for other clerical positions."

Excellency of Southern's Graduates.

The thorough and practical courses given by the Southern's experienced corps of teachers adequately qualify the pupils to creditably pass the Civil Service examinations. One of the Southern's graduates receives a salary of $2,000 a year in Washington, and has enough spare time to conduct a very successful shorthand school from which he also derives a good income.

Business Is The Greatest Profession

Business appropriates the genius of the inventor and gives to the world millions of pieces of labor-saving, pleasure-giving machinery. It takes the idea of Orville Wright and makes the world its beneficiary. Business carries the skyscraper a thousand feet into the air and gives comfortable housing to fifty thousand people who might otherwise scatter themselves over hundreds of acres of ground to no good purpose.

Business makes available to the masses the product of the artist, the noble thought of the philosopher, the fancy of the novelist, the magic of the chemist, and the skill of the surgeon. Business makes philanthropy effective, carries religion into the darkest countries, builds libraries, colleges and great hospitals.

Business is the great humanizing, civilizing force. It, more than science, or invention, or discovery, or art, is entitled to credit for the marvelous magnificence of the age in which we live. Give business its due, and make thorough preparation at the Southern to enter the business field. (adv.)

Southern Accredited By The National

Make Sure That Your Business School Has Been Accredited by The National Association.

Nineteen years ago the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools was formed for the purpose of setting up standards whereby the value of business education might be measured.

This Association has with great care admitted to its roll only those schools that have been found, upon careful investigation, to meet the high standards fixed by its founders as minimum requirements for membership.

In the United States and Canada, 240 of the leading private business schools. These schools are definitely pledged to maintain certain high standards of scholarship and general efficiency that insure the student against mistakes in the process of acquiring his education. Teachers in these schools must be efficient and must be imbued with enthusiasm for modern business methods. Courses of study must not only be modern, but adequate—they must be broad, and yet they must be aimed directly at the accomplishment of one thing—viz., BUSINESS EFFICIENCY.

Every graduate is entitled to the free service of the Employment Department of the accredited schools throughout the United States and Canada, should he at any time desire help in securing a position.

The excellence of accredited schools is so generally recognized throughout the country that the graduate enjoys the advantage of an exceptionally favorable introduction to the business public when he leaves his school.

The Southern Shorthand and Business University feels proud of the fact that, when the Board of Examiners made a thorough investigation of this school, it measured up to the high standards required of its members as evidenced by the certificate of membership, a copy of which is published below:

Indication of Nation's Financial Stability Is Given by Speedy Action on Treasury Bonds.

As an indication of the financial stability of Atlanta, reports from the United States treasury received here Tuesday showed that this district subscribed to almost one-fourth of the entire issue of the new 3 1/8 per cent treasury bonds sold by the government last week.

An issue of $800,000,000 of the new bonds was offered to the nation at large, and it was oversubscribed many times, a total of $8,315,524,500 being offered. Of this amount, the treasury accepted $821,410,350.

Atlanta investors, who were allotted $29,547,700, promptly subscribed $190,673,250, almost a quarter of the total accepted subscriptions.

The New York federal reserve district received the largest allotment of the bonds, getting a total of $386,004,750. Chicago was second, receiving $111,923,700.

The Atlanta district subscription was larger than those of St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City or Dallas. Reporting on the offer and subscription, the treasury Tuesday showed that the following allotments were given the respective federal reserve districts:

New York, $386,004,750; Chicago, $111,923,700; Boston, $12,180,000; Philadelphia, $56,500,000; Cleveland,

KLEIN SEES SLOW RISE FROM "ROCK BOTTOM"

CHICAGO, June 9.—(AP)—Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, told the Radio Manufacturers Association today that the business depression hit the low point last January and "since then we have been at the rock bottom."

When the upward swing of the cycle would begin, he did not care to predict, but pointed out that there had been somewhat of a rise since January, with business that month 34 per cent normal, compared with 30 per cent in April.

founded when there exists documentary evidence to the contrary." He asserted that "the attitude of Mr. Mellon on this matter necessitates the further charge that the secretary of the treasury has taken advantage of his official position to conceal facts and thus shield a government official who is derelict in his office."

"If the secretary's findings are justified that my charges are ill-founded, it is most unfortunate that the public has not been so advised for I assure you, Mr. President, there is universal belief throughout the country that the conditions I described exist, and it seems to me that any man who would dare to so malign public officials, as

He concluded by saying that "rather than continue under the existing conditions, I voluntarily resigned my government office and relinquished my civil service status."

BUCKHEAD OFFICE PLANNED BY BANK

Fulton National To Open Branch at Peachtree and Simms Avenue.

A branch of the Fulton National bank, to be located at Buckhead, is being planned, it was announced Tuesday by officials of that bank. Such a branch, it was said, will be located on the northeast corner of Peachtree road, at the intersection of Simms avenue.

As soon as the contract is let construction will be begun, the announced said, and the new bank property will have a frontage of 32 feet on Peachtree road and will extend back 100 feet. In addition, a store which will adjoin, will give the new structure a complete frontage of 80 feet. Plans for the building are being prepared by Pringle & Smith, architects. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy by September.

Need for additional space necessitated the new branch, it was explained, as well as an increasing number of suburban customers.

The site on which the Buckhead branch will be located was purchased by Bolling H. Jones, chairman of the board of directors of the Fulton, and is being leased from Mr. Jones. Three store units in the new building will be let to retail concerns by Mr. Jones, it was said.

It will be a thoroughly fireproofed structure, with the most modern banking equipment and facilities. There will be 1,000 safe deposit boxes, and the new, low-type counters will be installed instead of the old-fashioned grilles "cage" for tellers. The exterior of the building will be of limestone.

The new branch will be the third of the Fulton National. At present it has branches at Decatur and at 335 Peters street, S. W.

MISS PAT HALL, SALLIE JACKSON WIN BEAUTY PRIZES

at the Capitol theater Tuesday night one at a time, each girl being designated by a number. When the entire group had been lined in double rows, on the stage, the judges' decision was handed to Mr. Totty over the footlights.

Twelve girls were then called by number. They constituted the very select dozen from which "Miss Atlanta" and "Miss Georgia" had been chosen. The two alternates and the two winners were then called forth to receive their flowers, their titles and the plaudits of the crowd.

A tentative program has been mapped out for the two winners as follows: One of them, if she chooses, may have a life-size statue of her made by J. Don Amazon, Atlanta seer.

After the test. The dirigible is to return to its Lakehurst, N. J., hangar in the morning.

Women of U. S. Spoiled, British Writer Claims

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—American women are spoiled, much more so than English women, J. B. Priestly, British author, told interviewers tonight between the acts of his play, "Good Companions."

"The American husband," he said, "is probably the ideal husband—for the American woman."

"Hollywood is a place where people get up at 6 o'clock in the morning and do physical exercises. It is terribly respectable and even duller than Bloomsbury."

Approximately 600 representatives of agriculture, commerce, rail transportation and affiliated branches of each will gather here Friday for the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Southeast Shippers' Advisory Board, which will be held at the Ansley hotel.

In announcing plans for the convention, T. M. Healy, field secretary of the car service division of the association, explained the purpose will be to forecast anticipated business conditions in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. Problems involving distribution of stocks on hand also will be discussed.

Thomas J. Burke, commissioner of the traffic bureau at Charleston, S. C., and general chairman of the advisory board, will preside. He will be assisted by E. Del Wood, traffic manager of the Chattanooga Manufacturers' Association, and A. J. Young, assistant traffic manager of the International Agricultural Corporation, of Atlanta, who is general secretary of the advisory board.

DIRIGIBLE EFFECTS NAVY PLANE PICKUP

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 9.—(AP) The navy dirigible Los Angeles tonight picked up a navy plane piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot J. O'Brien, a few miles north of the air station, and later released it from special dorsal gear.

The flight, pick-up and release was accomplished successfully. It had been planned to test the apparatus over the metal chain area, but weather conditions prevented.

O'Brien returned to the station after the test. The dirigible is to return to its Lakehurst, N. J., hangar in the morning.

Georgia's Congress Group May Campaign as Unit

Should Legislature Fail To Redistrict, State's Solons May Pool Resources for Re-election.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Should the Georgia legislature at the forthcoming biennial session fail to redistrict the state in keeping with the new congressional reapportionment there is a strong probability that the 21 present sitting congressmen will join together in a common campaign to insure the re-election of 10 of their group in the democratic primaries of next year.

While a definite program to that end has not yet been agreed upon, the Constitution is able to report today that individual members of the delegation are giving serious consideration to such a course of action, feeling that it offers the only means of protecting them against the expense and burdens incident to carrying on a campaign over the state at large.

Such a campaign would undoubtedly give rise to one of the most interesting political battles ever witnessed in Georgia history.

Under the new apportionment, which goes into effect with the election of the next congress, Georgia's congressional representation will be reduced from the 12 present members to 10. Unless the legislature passes a redistricting bill in the meantime, carving 10 new districts out of the existing 12, all members of the lower house of congress to be selected next year will have to run from the state at large.

Failure of the legislature to act would be expected to result in wholesale announcements of candidates seeking one of the 10 places.

A campaign of the kind might prove particularly attractive to a large number of aspirants over the state with statewide reputations, aspirants who otherwise might not consider making the race.

In any event, members of the present congressional delegation feel that they would be subjected to a rather severe campaign if faced with the necessity of running at large. For one thing, the expense of conducting a statewide campaign would be many times that of a campaign confined to district lines. Also there is another disadvantage which members of the delegation feel would work against them by being forced to take pot luck, as it were, with a score or more of prospective candidates with statewide reputations. There is yet another factor of a different nature which lends itself for appeal for the continuation of the present delegation in office and that is that in a race for congressmen-at-large there would be no assurance of the various sections of the state being represented proportionately in the ten new members to be elected.

Natural Plan.
In going over the situation and considering the possibilities of suggested legislative inaction, members of the congressional group have naturally hit upon the plan of pooling their resources in a common campaign effort.

Should the plan materialize, therefore, it would not be surprising to see the sitting congressmen go before the state with an appeal something like this:

"Vote for ten of the present twelve congressmen in order to maintain something approaching the present equal representation of all sections of the state. If you can vote for me, very well, but if you can't, vote for ten of the others in any event."

By combining in a joint effort over the state, with each member working for the other in his own district, the group would be able to put up a formidable campaign against the field. It would tend to insure the election of a maximum number of those now sitting. It also would open the way for one of the most interesting campaigns the state has ever seen.

Incidentally, the failure of the legislature to act would probably make it necessary also for all delegates from Georgia to the next republican and democratic national conventions to be selected from the state at large, as against the past method of assigning delegates to each congressional district. That is a problem, however, that may be settled by the two national committee organizations at meetings to be held in the fall.

Members of the Georgia congressional group are keeping a close eye on the redistricting situation and all of them are expected to be on hand when the legislature meets this month to consider the question. Aside from their unanimous desire to see a redistricting bill of some description passed, they will be keenly interested in the boundary lines of the new districts.

Hurt Street Cherries Prove Rivals of Famous Japanese

Mrs. Joseph Bray, of The Constitution's circulation department, photographed with a cluster of cherries grown in the backyard of H. O. Clark, at 145 Hurt street, N. E. The cherries were a little too dense to be counted accurately but there were about 30 of them in the cluster.

Georgia cherries are not perhaps so famous as Japanese cherries. But they yield nothing to the foreign variety in point of size, color and taste, if you accept the evidence presented by three trees in the back yard of H. O. Clark, at 145 Hurt street, N. E. Thirty beautiful red cherries, clustered on a single twig and weighing almost a quarter of a pound, were produced by one of these trees this year. It doesn't particularly matter which tree did the work; the great point is that the work was done quite as efficiently on Hurt street as it might have been in the shadow of Fujiyama.

Slightly Weary, Davis Reports, As 36th Hour in Test Is Reached

Slightly weary, and getting a little bit stiff was the word sent in late Tuesday night by Endurance Davis, the East Point Chevrolet Company's endurance driver, who is attempting to set a new record for continual driving on the streets of Atlanta this week.

He has covered over 33 hours of this grueling test and hopes for a record of 127 hours without a stop. The car will be observed on the streets every day this week. When stopped by traffic signals, he is required to go forward a foot, then back up the foot. The car must be in motion at all times.

The drive in Atlanta is being sponsored by the following representative concerns: Sears, Roebuck & Co., tires; Brown Tire Company, Philco Transistor radio for automobiles; Taylor Drug Company, Pig'n Whistle, Stone Baking Company, W. O. Pierce Dairy Company, Keene Optical Company, Wallborn Hope, Inc., Shell oil products; Auto Electric & Magneto Co., Trico Claireon horn, Bosch horn and Bosch pyro-action spark plug; Primrose Dry Cleaning Company and Awtry & Lowndes, ambulance.

LABOR CANDIDATE WINS IN MINNEAPOLIS RACE
MINNEAPOLIS, June 9.—(AP)—Minneapolis voters for the second time in the city's history yesterday elected a labor-indorsed candidate for mayor. William A. Anderson, an attorney and former North Dakotan, won an overwhelming victory over George E. Leach, former mayor, in the municipal election. Unofficial returns gave Anderson a margin of more than 32,000 votes over his opponent. In 276 out of 353 precincts Anderson had 56,104, and Leach 34,904.

QUEENS SEWER HEAD
SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH
NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—A sewer official of the borough of Queens took his life today as the legislative committee investigating the New York city administration started delving into the affairs of Queens borough.

John C. Mackey, wealthy assistant engineer in the bureau of sewers, shot himself in the head in the presence of his wife at their home at Port Washington.

George L. Harvey, borough president, denied Mackey was concerned in the present probe, but declared the investigation may have preyed upon his mind.

"They are preying upon many minds," he said, "and all borough employees are feeling concern. Many more may commit suicide before the worry is over."

Mackey had been in charge of all sewer construction in the towns of Woodside, Elmhurst and Corona and it was his duty to certify they had been built according to specifications. He was independently wealthy, much of his wealth having been inherited. He had not been active in politics.

DR. SAM W. SMALL
RECEIVES LL. D. DEGREE
EMORY, Va., June 9.—(AP)—Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president-elect of Washington and Lee University, said here today the belief that tax supported education must be confined to intellectual lines is a "fatal and widespread error" which has led to "an epidemic of robbery, burglary and murder never before approached in our history."

Dr. Smith was speaker at the Emory and Henry commencement exercises marking graduation of a class of 54 students and conferring of the honorary degrees of doctor of divinity on Rev. R. P. Shuler, Los Angeles minister, and doctor of laws on Dr. Sam W. Small, of The Atlanta Constitution.

HEAVY BUILDING TOLL
EXACTED BY TERMITES
NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—An army of termites is raising hob with city buildings. Tiny as ants, the termites are blamed by Mellon C. Greeley, of Jacksonville, Fla., for losses of a million dollars a year in Illinois alone.

Mr. Greeley, reporting the result of his studies of the termite to the American Institute of Architects today, said there is "no portion of the country and no type of building which may not, under certain conditions, be subject to attack."

THRICE JAILED WOMAN REINDICTED IN KILLING

Grand Jury Returns New
Charges in Mysterious
Death of Floridan.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Nellie Pierce has been jailed three times on charges of killing her husband. She was exonerated once by an Alachua county grand jury, indicted by the same inquisitorial body, released by the presiding judge today and a few minutes later reindicted for first degree murder.

Mrs. Pierce is charged with killing James F. Pierce, 41, at their home here May 21. She claimed the homicide was an accident.

The woman told of accidentally discharging a shotgun she was attempting to hide from her husband after he had threatened to kill her 14-year-old son by a former marriage. She said she bundled the boy in bedclothes and drove 145 miles to Lakeland to the home of her sister before the authorities or her son, who went with her, were told.

The grand jury last Tuesday returned a no bill against Mrs. Pierce. On Thursday of the same week a true bill charging first degree murder was returned by the same jury, which heard additional evidence.

Mrs. Pierce was arraigned today before Judge Fred L. Stringer, of Brooksville, presiding over the court term here during the illness of Judge A. V. Long. Judge Stringer quashed the indictment after the state's attorney and defense lawyers had debated all morning.

Hardly had Mrs. Pierce been freed before State's Attorney J. C. Adkins presented the case again to the grand jury and a few minutes later a second first degree murder indictment was returned. She will be arraigned again Thursday.

American Mayors Meet Doumergue In Elysee Palace

PARIS, June 9.—(AP)—America's touring mayors were received by President Gaston Doumergue at the Elysee palace today. Later they prepared to leave London tomorrow for further sightseeing at Tours and in France's "chateaux region."

The executives were cordially welcomed by the retiring president, who told them that "all France loves America."

Ambassador Walter E. Edge escorted the visitors to the presidential palace and introduced them to the chief executive.

The party was presented with a silver model of the famous plane Question Mark by Diéudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who asked them to give it to President Hoover.

Later the mayors were entertained by the Paris post of the American Legion at their new clubhouse.

PARTIAL EMPLOYMENT ADVOCATED BY GREEN

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—A splitting-up of employment to decrease joblessness, coupled with a guarantee of continuing work, was named tonight by William Green as an initial step for ending business depression.

The president of the American Federation of Labor told the unemployment and economic conference of Rutgers University that with this step and a speeding of public construction "improvement in the industrial situation ought to be quite noticeable within a reasonable length of time."

"The millions of people who suffer want," Green said, "constitute industry's best market. That market is at home, at our very door."

He contended a release of the buying power of millions who have been held back by fear of losing their jobs, and of additional millions who could be given assured, even if part-time jobs, would be "dramatic in its consequences and powerful in its results."

New Georgia Constitution Sadly Needed, Park Asserts

State Realizes Action Is Necessary, Macon Lawyer Says in Address to Atlanta Rotarians.

Declaring that Georgia under its present constitution is organized on a "basis of inefficiency" and that reorganization of the state government can be effective only if it carries through the county local governments, Judge Orville A. Park, of Macon, told Atlanta Rotarians at their weekly meeting Tuesday that Georgia must continue "to trail the procession of states" unless a fundamental change of government is adopted.

"We have awakened to the need, and are now at work revising the executive department. But the legislative department needs reorganization as much as the executive department, and the judiciary department is no longer suitable for anything but a nineteenth century country," Judge Park, who is one of Georgia's foremost exponents of the movement for a new constitution, stated.

The speaker was introduced Tuesday by Ivan Allen, who served as chairman of a commission appointed by Governor Hardman to survey the deficiencies of the state executive department. In referring to this commission Judge Park asserted that "lack of a responsible executive head of the state government, as pointed out by Mr. Allen's committee, is one of the glaring faults of our government under the present constitution."

"Although it is essential that this department be reorganized, we may as well know now that, while we can obtain more efficient state operation and ultimate economy this way, we need hope for no direct savings from expense of government. However, our system of county government is the most wasteful. Only through correction of this can we obtain economy and efficient state government."

"Fulton county, paying one-fourth the expenses of government, and with one-eighth the population of the state, has less than one-sixtieth representation. That is one example of the inadequacy of our present county organization. Georgia has 161 counties, while its neighboring state, Alabama, has only 67."

"The whole state greeted with applause the recent merger of Fulton and Campbell counties and the proposal that DeKalb now join with Fulton. Let us hope that the melody of mergers is catching and that the time be picked up over the state."

"Of course, no real reorganization of the state can be hoped for unless a new constitution be made the basis of it. Our present constitution, dating back to 1877, amended 100 times, is antiquated and rendered useless by the suspicion of its framers incorporated in the document. Framed at a time when the state was just riding itself of the nightmare rule of carpetbaggers, in a period entirely different from our own and by men of a different era whose main aim was to prevent a relapse into the reign of scoundrels, the state constitution is utterly unsuitable for our present needs."

Georgian Locates Stoddard's Pigeon

On May 26 a strange pigeon lighted on the screen window of Mrs. R. L. Pirkle's kitchen, at Hoschton, Ga. It had a metal band around one leg, with a certain number on it. Mrs. Pirkle watered and fed the pigeon and liberated it, but it came back. So she wrote to "The Constitution" about it.

A reporter called up E. L. Hardy, secretary of the Atlanta Homing Pigeon Club. Within half a minute the identity of the vagabond pigeon and its owner had been solved.

"It's Bill Stoddard's," Mr. Hardy declared. "It was among 81 birds released at Valdosta on May 24 for a race to Atlanta. There was a stiff east wind that day and the bird overtook its home loat. Then it got hungry when night came and found itself in uncharted territory. That's the reason it stays at Mrs. Pirkle's. It doesn't know where to go."

MOTORCYCLIST DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

Joel Chandler Harris, 17, of River-side, received fatal injuries, and George Izard, 12, of Chattahoochee, was possibly fatally injured when Harris' motorcycle and a wagon occupied by Izard crashed on Hollywood road near Magnolia cemetery Monday night. Harris died Tuesday morning at Grady hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted some time Thursday at the New Anti-och Baptist church, the Rev. T. P. Tribble officiating. Interment will probably be in the churchyard. At-try & Lowndes will announce the complete arrangements later. Young Harris is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Harris; three brothers, H. A., L. A. and Felton Harris; six sisters, Mrs. Ruby Rerringhouse, Mrs. Mary Boorde, the Misses Jimmie, Inez, Edith and Eunice Harris; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Chandler and Mrs. A. C. Harris.

The Izard boy was riding on the rear of a wagon driven by Ben Bedding-ton, when it was struck by Harris' motorcycle. Harris was thrown to the ground, and Izard was thrown several feet from the wagon. Bedding-ton and Izard's father, who was riding in the wagon, escaped injury.

NEW WITNESSES GIVE ALIBIS FOR GARRISON

Card Dealer and Woman Testify in Slaying of Hazel Bradshaw.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—More alibi witnesses were called today at the preliminary hearing of Moss E. Garrison, 37, railway commissary clerk, accused of the murder of his former sweetheart, Hazel Bradshaw, 22, telephone operator.

William E. Warner, formerly a dealer at a card room here, testified Garrison was in the room on the afternoon of May 3 when a newsboy entered shouting that "the fourth girl had been murdered in San Diego."

Warner said Garrison bought a paper and read the headlines. "Why, that is Hazel," Garrison said. "I was with her until midnight last night and I guess I'd better go down to the police station."

Mrs. D. A. Canfield, who lives near the Bradshaw home, added her testimony to that of several witnesses yesterday who said they had seen a large sedan in the street before the Bradshaw home on the night the girl was killed. Mrs. Canfield also said she had seen the automobile stop at the house after midnight several times previously and a girl enter it on some occasions.

BLACK APPEALS FOR BUREAU FUND

On the eve of the meeting Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock of the executive committee of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau in the Atlanta Athletic Club, Eugene Black, district governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, appealed to businessmen to lend their assistance to the $50,000 expansion campaign sponsored for the bureau to bring more conventions and tourists to Atlanta.

Citing past accomplishments of the organization as evidence of its value to the city, Mr. Black said: "The committee asks $50,000 in public subscriptions to bring more conventions and tourists here; rather, a $50,000 investment is offered businessmen. Dividends are certain as has been demonstrated in the past."

The following were added to the executive committee Tuesday, bringing the number up to 40: Wilbur F. Glenn, Major John S. Cohen, Henry Heinz, Walter C. Hendrix, Scott Hudson, Harry S. McCowan, Wiley L. Moore, Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker and Judge Edgar Watkins.

HOW TWO FAR-SEEING PARENTS WILL HELP THEIR SONS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT THE PRACTICAL THINGS OF LIFE

ON a bright clear morning this month, two boys will step eagerly into a Ford roadster and start on a motor trip that will last the whole summer through.

Theirs will be a trip never to be forgotten . . . long to be remembered.

Regular school will have closed for them, but their practical education will be but beginning. They will learn many things not found in books. Two far-seeing parents have attended to that.

Pressed by the boys to give them an automobile as reward for passing with high grades, the parents consented on one condition . . . that the trip must serve a useful purpose. So this plan was decided on.

Each day the boys will arise at seven o'clock and follow a carefully arranged route and schedule. This calls for their visiting principal points of interest in this country and spending time in leading industrial plants. They will get back to the sources of raw materials—see how things are mined and grown—and follow them through the various stages of manufacture. They will see how they are used by millions of people.

Bustling factories will teach of the work of men and machines. The village farms and wide, rolling prairies will reveal the magic of nature and the treasures that lie beneath the soil. Everywhere—through first-hand contact—they will learn more about the great country in which they live.

Thrown a great deal on their own resources—yet not too much—they will develop a poise and self-reliance they could get in no other way. The theory of books will become the actuality of fact.

Each night they will sit down and write a letter telling what they have seen and what they have done in that particular day. And two proud parents at home will read and envy and prepare perhaps to set forth on a similar adventure.

It seems altogether natural and logical that the Ford was selected for an extended trip of this kind. Always it has been associated with dependable, economical, useful transportation. For more than a quarter of a century it has been both pioneer and leader.

Years ago it was the first automobile ever seen in many of the sections the boys will visit. Today it is a part of the lives and activities of millions of men and women. So universal is its service that people everywhere look upon it not only as an automobile but a national institution. It is the symbol and the expression of high value at low price, unique manufacturing methods, and higher wages for American workmen.

Many thousands of miles of use will confirm your first impression of quality and give you a feeling of pride and satisfaction in the performance of the Ford. You will come back from the long trip convinced that it is "a great car."

JURY WILL RENEW PROBE INTO GRAFT

Boykin Says Inquiry Will Be Resumed Last of This Month.

The city hall graft probe will be renewed by the Fulton grand jury during the last week of this month and will continue through the summer recess of superior court, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin announced Tuesday. Several new matters will be involved in the investigation, it was said.

A number of angles of the graft investigation which are considered by the solicitor-general as too important to drop will be completed, Mr. Boykin said. Missing links in the city investigation will be placed in their proper places with the probable result of new indictments, it was said.

Mr. Boykin said that the investigation will last until the first week of August, when the courts reconvene and may be taken up again later during another short recess. The solicitor-general has been too busy with court trials of the graft cases, the hearing of motions and other matters to pursue the investigation as he desired during the last several months, and the summer recess will afford a much needed opportunity of completing the investigation, he said.

Postoffice Officials of State To Convene For Two-Day Discussion of Problems Today

Approximately 200 Georgia postmasters and postmistresses are expected to attend the two-day sessions of the annual convention of the Georgia branch, National League of District Postmasters, which will convene at the Henry Grady hotel at 9:45 o'clock this morning. Subjects of interest to postal employees will form the theme of all discussions. Addresses of Representative Robert Ramsey, Postmaster E. K. Large, Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, and H. S. Smith, postoffice inspector of this district, will feature the first day's sessions. Others who will speak before the Georgia postmasters include H. W. Riddell, Atlanta superintendent of the railway mail service; Edmund B. Windsor, of Castle, N. Y., national executive committeeman, and Luke Arnold, executive secretary to Mayor James L. Key.

An inspection trip of the Sears-Roebuck plant, another banquet and special entertainment will feature today's entertainment program. A radio program over WSB has been arranged for the visiting postal officials.

One of the most interesting talks of the convention is expected to be given by Postmaster Large, on the subject of air mail. Atlanta's remarkable development as an aerial gateway of the south has expanded the public utilization of air mail, and Mr. Large is expected to touch on the future outlook.

Thursday at noon, the visitors will be entertained at luncheon at the Henry Grady, after which an open forum of impromptu talks will be held, under the direction of an inspector of postoffices yet to be named. The convention will close after an address by Nelson A. Tracy, superintendent of the division of postmasters at Washington, D. C.

Miss Faithfull's body was washed ashore at Long Beach, Long Island, yesterday. An autopsy indicated death was caused by drowning.

After a conference today with Stanley E. Faithfull, the girl's stepfather, District Attorney Edwards announced he believed the girl had been slain.

He left early in the evening with Faithfull and Inspector Harold R. King to investigate various angles of the case, and made his statement concerning the possible arrests in a telephone conversation with police headquarters here.

He said: "I have been questioning the father, Stanley E. Faithfull; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Tooker, and Mrs. Ellen McGregor. Faithfull, the girl's mother, and I am convinced the girl was murdered by two men, one important politically in New York, the other of some consequence also."

"I believe the murder was committed in New York city and the body transported to Long Beach."

POWER TAX COLLECTION HALTED IN CAROLINA

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 9.—(AP)—An order restraining the South Carolina tax commission from directly or indirectly collecting the recently enacted state tax on power in so far as it applies to three South Carolina power companies was issued in United States court here today by Judge Ernest F. Cochran, pending a hearing before a three-judge federal court.

The temporary restraining order applies to the Broad River Power Company and the Lexington Water Power Company of Columbia and the South Carolina Power Company of Charleston.

In their petition the power companies alleged the tax of one-half mill per kilowatt hour of power generated or distributed in South Carolina violated both the state and federal constitutions.

HORTON CLEARED BY HOUSE VOTE

Tennessee Legislators Quash Seven Impeachment Articles.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 9.—(AP)—The Tennessee house of representatives today threw out impeachment proceedings against Governor Henry H. Horton, whose administration has been under fire since four banks failed under fire since four banks failed last fall and tied up almost $7,000,000.

Climaxing a four months' legislative investigation of state affairs, the house voted, 56 to 40, to defeat seven articles of impeachment and add them to the one discarded last week by a 58 to 41 decision. All the charges were killed beyond the possibility of reconsideration when the members, after refusing to adopt them, passed a motion to reject.

"I am deeply grateful to my friends, not only for myself, but for the state of Tennessee," the governor said when word of the house's action reached the executive offices. "Tennessee has been saved." Well-wishers swarmed into the reception room to congratulate him. Mrs. Horton and their son, John, who had remained with the governor throughout the proceedings, joined in the hand-shaking.

Interest dwindles. With the decisive defeat of the first article, action of the others apparently has been discounted as only a thin line of spectators stood in the rear to watch the proceedings and the galleries were far from filled. There was no demonstration when the seven articles awaiting disposition were taken up together and quashed.

As soon as Speaker Walter M.

Haynes had announced the result of the roll call, the house turned to its regular order of business and soon was in a wrangle over a proposal, previously adopted by the senate, to disperse with the auditors employed by the state affairs investigators last January to make an audit of each department of the state government.

John Tipton, of Tipton county, was chairman of the house committee appointed to study the state affairs investigators' findings and report whether these warranted impeachment proceedings. The committee reported in the affirmative and presented eight articles, which alleged:

Eight Charges. That Horton conspired to trade control of several state departments for the political support of Colonel Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell.

That failure to have proper estimates made of the amount of surety bonds required of appointees handling public funds constituted dereliction of duty.

That Neil Bass was forced out as highway commissioner because he refused to act in accordance with the wishes of Lea and Caldwell.

That Harry S. Berry, who succeeded Bass, was removed for similar reasons.

That the governor pardoned a fugitive from justice for whom he had issued a requisition on the governor of Arkansas, overriding protests of prosecutors.

That he was guilty of "great moral delinquency and gross breach of decorum," for permitting a piano to be placed in the executive mansion after disapproving of the item in an appropriations bill.

That the funding board, of which he is an ex-officio member, passed with his knowledge a resolution that resulted in practically all of the bridge funds being deposited in Rogers Caldwell's Bank of Tennessee, now in receivership.

Upon motion of George Chamlee, of Hamilton, the committee that presented the articles was discharged following the roll call on them.

TAX REVIEW ASKED BY RALPH CAPONE

Brother of Al Cites Heavy Gambling Losses During 3-Year Period.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Ralph J. Capone, of Chicago, has asked the board of tax appeals to review a charge of income tax deficiency covering three years during which he conducted gambling operations in Chicago.

In a petition for the review, the brother of "Al" Capone, Chicago underworld king, indicted last week on similar charges, explained that he filed no returns because he was "relying on court decisions holding that no returns need be made for income from illegal sources."

Some officials said there might be a question whether the losses might be deductible just the same as a stock market losses.

The petition, filed by George Murdock, his attorney, said that during 1926, 1927 and 1928 Ralph acted as "cashier" for "a syndicate in legal operations."

While there was some profit in gambling, the plea added, Ralph gambled "both personally, and through gambling institutions operated by him and other persons," and any profit made was lost on race horses.

Mrs. Lloyd, who with her husband was residing here temporarily at the time, charged the attempt was made May 8 while she was showing him her house for possible purchase.

Rogers-Allen Wedding Rites Solemnized at St. Paul's Church

Impressive beauty characterized the wedding of Miss Idella Vivian Rogers and Ralph Herman Allen, which was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Paul's Methodist church before an assemblage of relatives and friends. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion with quantities of Easter lilies, white gladioli, palms and foliage plants. The pulpit was banked with palms interspersed by floor baskets filled with lilies and gladioli. Arranged at artistic intervals were seven-branched candelabras holding white tapers. A large basket holding Easter lilies graced the altar. The pews reserved for the families were marked by clusters of white gladioli tied with wide white satin ribbon. A prayer bench covered with white satin was arranged in front of the altar, the edge of the bench bordered by showery of white sweet peas. Prior to the marriage service an appropriate musical program was rendered by Mrs. Annie Mae Norton, who played softly on the organ "A Wild Rose." Rev. Felton Williams performed the ceremony.

The bride's table was overlaid with an imported lace cloth veiling pink satin and was graced in the center by a three-tiered wedding cake embossed with pink roses and valley lilies. Flowers in the pastel shades garlanded the lower edge of the cake and were arranged in small silver vases at artistic intervals on the table. At the four corners of the attractively decorated table were miniature bride's bouquets from which fell ribbons in the pastel shades.

Miss May Allen, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Ora Mae Rogers, the bride's sister, presided at the punch bowls. Miss Allen wore white chiffon and Miss Rogers was gown in blue crepe. Their shoulder bouquets were of pink roses. "In one vital manner at least," said Dr. Poling, "science and religion have united in a great conclusion. The answer to the riddle of the universe, the solution of the problem of being, is found not in matter, but in mind."

THE DEADLY GRIP.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Determination clamps the grip. And guards against the slightest slip.

—Old Mother Nature.

"For one of your size you certainly have a wicked-looking set of teeth," said Farmer Brown's boy as he stood in the Arizona desert looking down at a pink-and-black lizard who was quite the largest member of the family he ever had seen and who, despite his rather handsomely colored coat, was an ugly-looking fellow and appeared to be quite as ugly as he looked. When he opened his mouth to snarl he showed those teeth plainly, for he opened his mouth very wide. Also, he showed that his mouth was black and this made him look much more unpleasant. He hissed in a manner which showed that he was in anything but a good temper.

"There is something about you that reminds me of a Bulldog," continued Farmer Brown's boy, keeping at a respectful distance. "I have an idea that if you should get hold of me you would hang on, 'cause your teeth look pretty strong. I wonder just how hard you would bite if you got the chance. That's a funny-looking skin of yours. It looks as if it were covered with big pimples. I think I'll call you Bumpy. That's as good a name as I can think of. It seems to fit."

As a matter of fact it did fit more closely than Farmer Brown's boy realized. For this big, ugly fellow belonged to a branch of the Lizard family known as Bearded Lizards, to distinguish them from the rest of the family who wear scales. There are two of these Bearded Lizards, one called the Gila Monster and the other Mexican Bearded Lizard. Bumpy was a Gila Monster. Farmer Brown's boy didn't know this until he got back to the ranch and told of his meeting with Bumpy. Then he learned that his new acquaintance was quite as dangerous as he looked to be, for, like Bumpy the Rattlesnake, he is poisonous. When he bites he injects poison. Both the Bearded Lizards are poisonous, the only American Lizards that are.

From his saddle Farmer Brown's boy took a rope that was coiled there. Then he returned and began to tease Bumpy by throwing an end of that rope so that it fell close to him. Like a flash Bumpy snapped at it and seized it. It didn't seem possible that such a clumsy-looking fellow could move so quickly. His jaws came together on that rope. Farmer Brown's boy began to pull and shake that rope. The more he pulled and the harder he shook the more the firmly Bumpy set his jaws and hung on. It was clear that he had no intention of being shaken loose.

But Bumpy didn't take the hint. He liked the heat and he hadn't got to get anywhere in particular. Moreover, he was thoroughly angry. So he hung on with a deadly grip that refused to be loosened, no matter what Farmer Brown's boy did. And it was, in truth, a deadly grip, or it would have been had those teeth been set in flesh instead of a rope. You see, some of those teeth on the lower jaw had little grooves in them, and along these little grooves poison was working. Buzztail the Rattlesnake has two long teeth called fangs in the upper jaw, and when he bites he drives these into the flesh, and at the same time forces poison down through them, for they are hollow. Therefore the poison enters the wound with the bite. But with Bumpy the Gila Monster it takes time for the poison to work into the wound, and that is why he hangs on.

Miss Fulcher Weds Mr. Lewis At Ceremony in Mayfield, Ky.

MAYFIELD, Ky., June 9.—The first Baptist church here, in which the marriage of the bride's parents took place 25 years ago, was the scene of the wedding at 6 o'clock this evening of Miss Sally Welsh Fulcher, newly young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Fulcher, of Atlanta, Ga., to Edward Lee Lewis Jr., of Decatur, Ga. Dr. A. S. Pettie, life-long friend of the bride's family, who performed the ceremony for her parents, read the marriage service in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives.

Practically all the guests were seated for the ceremony in the church hall, which was filled with white wicker flower baskets, filled with lilies flanked either side of the altar and were placed at intervals behind the chancel rail, which was twined with garlands of southern smilax. The bride and groom were seated in the center of the church, the flowers and garlands in front of them. The bride, standing in seven-branched candelabra, wearing a white tulle gown, surrounded of green. Clusters of lilies, white and pink, were placed on either side of the bride. The bride's train was marked the pews reserved for the families.

Wedding Personnel.
Mrs. Noble Gregory, soloist, and Mrs. Lindsey Hale, organist, both of Mayfield, rendered a program of musical music. Mrs. Gregory, wearing a gown of mauve lace and a shoulder spray of valley lilies and roses, sang, "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Hale was dressed in floral chiffon and her flowers were a shoulder spray of roses and valley lilies.

Miss Martha Stoddard of Nashville, Tenn., cousin of the bride, who was mother, Mrs. R. B. Stoddard, acted as maid of honor for the bride's mother. The bride's mother, Mrs. R. B. Stoddard, acted as maid of honor for the bride's mother.

Coral chignon developed with a long, flaring skirt and a bodice cut in a deep V in the back, formed her effective costume. A feature of the gown, which was worn with gloves and slippers dyed to match, featured a graceful bertha of chiffon outlining the neck, and a peplum of the same with trailing the line at the hips. The maid of honor's only ornament was a string of lustrous pearls, a gift from the bride, and completing her costume was a lovely garden bouquet of roses, cornflowers, snapdragons, delphinium and sweet peas, showered with sweet peas and valley lilies and tied with coral ribbons.

Mrs. R. D. Fulcher acted as her daughter's matron of honor, wearing a gown of corn flower blue chiffon, fashioned on lines similar to that worn by the maid of honor. Her bouquet was of garden flowers, displaying all the pastel tints, and tied with corn flower blue ribbon. She wore gloves and slippers dyed to match the shade of her gown and a string of pearls which was a gift of the bride.

Beautiful Bride.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, R. D. Fulcher, and attending Mr. Lewis as best man was R. D. Fulcher Jr., brother of the bride. Acting as groomsmen were Brannon B. Lessee, of Mobile, Ala., and Edward Camp, of Rome, Ga., who were classmates of the bridegroom at Georgia Tech and graduated with him last Monday.

Filmy white chiffon fashioned the bridal robes, which emphasized the bride's beauty. The bride, young bride, The sleeveless bodice, cut in a deep V in the back and featuring the cowl neckline in front, was attached to the long, flaring skirt at the high waistline which was finished with a narrow belt fastened in the back with a pearl buckle. The skirt gained fullness by means of many godets let in below the hipline. A bridal veil of illusion tulle, confined in becoming cap fashion to her dark hair, was caught with white ribbons and small clusters of orange blossoms, entirely enveloping her graceful figure and extending into a train. The costume was completed by white gloves and slippers and a graceful arm bouquet of delicately tinted orchids.

and valley lilies, tied with white faille ribbons.

Reception at Hotel.
Following the ceremony at the church, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis entertained at a wedding reception at the Hotel Hall in Mayfield. Receiving with the hosts and the bride and bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wilson and Miss Emily Wilford, cousins of the bride. Miss Virginia Wilson, another cousin of the bride, kept the bride's book.

Mrs. Wilson wore a becoming gown of floral printed chiffon. Miss Wilford and Miss Wilson were attractive figures wearing pastel shaded net gowns.

The guests were seated for supper at an elaborately decorated table formed in the shape of an H. Oblong bouquets of white French wicker, filled with a variety of Dresden shaded garden flowers, including snapdragons, sweet peas, delphinium, poppies, roses and larkspur, were placed at intervals, and alternated with crystal candelabra holding tall yellow tapers, caught with small clusters of lavender sweet peas. The place cards were hand decorated and bore sketches of a bride and bridegroom.

The bridegroom's gifts to the groomsmen were leather bill folders, tipped with gold.

Mr. Lewis and his bride left for a motor trip which will include fashionable coast resorts of the south. Upon their return they will occupy the home of the bride's parents on Cornell road in Atlanta, during their absence for the summer.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Miss Ruth Norris, Miss Mary Conway, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poyner, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bolster, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbert, all of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Charlotte Kirk, of Murray, Ky.

Carol Will Pay $40,000 a Year To Former Queen

VIENNA, June 9.—(AP)—Dispatches from Bucharest today said negotiations preliminary to former Queen Helen's leaving Rumania have been concluded and that she will leave in a few days, after arrangements are made for the payment to her of $40,000 a year through a London bank. The reports said the former queen demanded a sum be placed in investments for her to yield $40,000 a year, but that King Carol insisted such a sum was unavailable at present.

It is agreed, however, it was stated, to the annual payments and opened negotiations with a British bank. Helen may visit Rumania not more than three times a year to see her son, Prince Michael, the dispatch said, and for this purpose her palace at the capital and her summer residence on the Black sea will remain her property.

King Carol also was said to have given his word that he will apprise Helen if Prince Michael becomes ill so she may fly to Rumania to nurse her child.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS PURCHASE OF VILLA

PARIS, June 9.—(AP)—A Rumanian lawyer, who has just arrived here and who refused to permit the use of his name, said a beautiful villa and a large park were bought last week at Bucharest, Rumania, in the name of the mother of King Carol's secretary and that workmen were immediately ordered to build a high wall around the property. He said well informed circles in the Rumanian capital were insisting there was no doubt but that the villa was for Mme. Magda Lupescu and that the purchase actually was made by King Carol.

The purchase price of the property was given as $66,000.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

I have a small drawer full of letters about the miserable subject of jealousy. I keep stuffing more letters in that drawer in the vain hope that some new thought about the subject may occur to me, or that I may find some expert treatment of the subject in the new books and papers. But the drawer is full and I have no new thoughts, nor have the people after whom I read any new thoughts and the drawer must be emptied. This morning's mail brings a plea that will not be ignored. This is the letter:

"Please tell me what to do about an insanely jealous wife of mine. I have never given her the slightest cause for it, but if something is not done and done quickly she will have cause for divorce for I will leave her and go where I can find some peace. She is making my life miserable and she gets worse as we get older. I wish you would tell me why some, otherwise sensible, women will deliberately use this means of killing the love of their husbands.

"My wife is even jealous of my daughter's friends who visit us, which fact embarrasses them and humiliates me. I'll be grateful to you if you will think hard about this problem and print all your thoughts in the newspaper at the earliest possible date. I am not a silly old man who tries to flirt with the flappers. My wife says she loves me more than life itself but she is as surely killing my love for her as any following day."

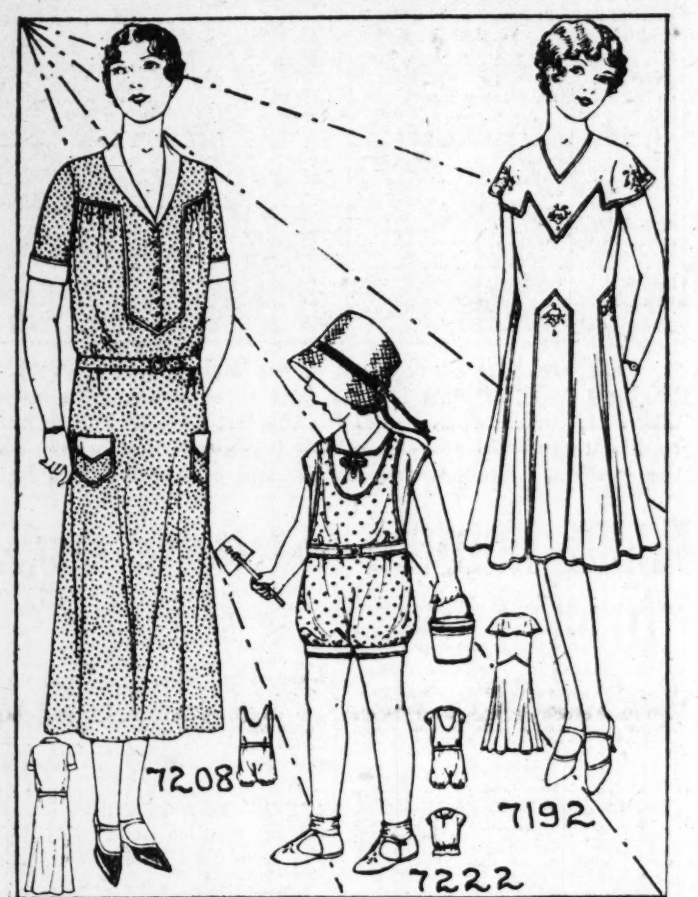

Probably a good nerve specialist can recommend some measures that are both scientific and practical. Take her to a clinic. Sifted down to the last analysis it will be impossible for anyone to give a prescription that will eradicate an inborn, lifelong habit of jealousy.

I have given hard thought to this problem and this is the result of my thinking. A man gets married and he says he is taking it "for better or for worse." It's a mighty poor sport who can't take the bad along with the good and it's a mighty poor husband who can't have pity on a wretched middle-aged woman who sees her youth slipping away and her powers failing while her husband, to whom nature is more kind, enjoys a normal maturity.

Mind you, I understand the torment which the husband of a jealous wife must endure. It is hard. I think he should use every means at his command to cope with it. But so long as his wife declares, and he knows "that she loves him better than herself," he should treat her as he would treat her if she had a physical disease that costs him peace of mind and money, comfort and ease, a disease that taxes his pity and his patience and ruins life for both of them. Such a disease must be endured until a merciful death releases the sick one.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

13 CHICAGO BANKS CLOSED BY DIRECTORS

CHICAGO, June 9.—(AP)—Thirteen south-side banks, all members of the John Bain group, closed their doors today. Nineteen have closed in two days.

The banks, all small neighborhood institutions, had combined deposits of $15,940,000 and total resources of $21,000,000 in the last financial statement.

Bain, south-side republican leader and member of the South Park board, is the controlling stockholder in each bank.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson said the institutions were closed at the request of the boards of directors.

"This bank has been closed for an auditing," the following statement was issued by John Bain.

"The Bain banking organizations deemed it best to close their banks this morning to conserve the interests of their depositors and stockholders."

"The closing of the banks is due to their inability readily to dispose of the assets of the banks without undue losses, due to prevailing conditions."

It is expected that the depositors and stockholders will be paid in full.

There is a portion of the stock giving the power commission jurisdiction over headwaters of navigable streams.

The suit is an outgrowth of the effort of the federal power commission to construct a power dam in this state.

At the same time the department issued a statement saying Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, then an assistant attorney-general, had recommended to Attorney-General Sargent that no appeal be taken in the case.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The labor department announced today that with the exception of one year there were fewer labor disputes in 1930 than at any time in 15 years.

The monthly labor review published by the department will say in its forthcoming issue that there were 653 labor disputes reported in 1930 as compared with 903 in 1929 and 629 in 1928.

The number of strikes and labor disputes reported rose from 3,789 in 1916 to 4,450 in 1917, then dropped to 3,450 in 1918 and in 1919 increased to 3,630. From 1921 when there were 2,385, the number has steadily diminished.

Eighty per cent of the strikes reported last year occurred north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers and 55 per cent of these were in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

New York city showed a greater number of strikes than any other city. About 14 per cent of all labor troubles coming to the attention of the department occurred there. Philadelphia, the next in number, had 5 per cent. There were 39 strikes reported in New York city, 23 in Philadelphia, and 18 in Chicago.

Lack of Rain Imperils Crops; Heat To Continue, Forecast Says

Georgia crops will be in a critical condition within the next week or so unless a good rain falls in the meantime. C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Tuesday when he issued a forecast of continued fair and warm weather. There is no rain in sight for Georgia, and the lack of precipitation since the middle of May has already begun to have a detrimental effect on crops, he said.

Mr. von Herrmann expects temperatures today to range between 60 and 80 degrees. The thermometer recorded readings of 53 to 75 degrees Tuesday. The coolness of the last several nights, which has caused blankets to be brought out of summer storage, is gradually giving way to a warming condition, the weather man said.

The weather map shows not a single indication of any rain for this section, Mr. von Herrmann said. The total deficiency in rain for the year, around 10 inches, is steadily mounting, and the ground badly needs moisture, he said. Mr. von Herrmann pointed out that there had not been even a trace of rainfall in June, and that May was .70 of an inch deficient. The last good rain was on May 9, when 33 of an inch fell. Since then, Atlanta had .06 of an inch on May 20, and .06 of an inch on May 31.

Officials of the department of agriculture would not agree with Mr. von Herrmann's conclusions that Georgia crops are in an imminent danger.

"If they went through the month of June without rain, as conditions now are," one bureau head said, "it would make little difference unless the heat was unusual. If the dry spell continued into July, however, that would be different."

ATTACKER KILLS MAN, WOUNDS WOMAN, GIRL

DAYTON, Ohio, June 9.—(AP) Thomas Benge, 50, was slain and his wife and daughter were seriously wounded sometime last night by an unidentified man who invaded their home here and attacked them.

Benge was killed by a blow which crushed his skull. His wife, Margaret Benge, 50, and the daughter, Laura, also were struck on the head. Mrs. Benge's skull was fractured and her recovery was doubtful. The daughter was injured less seriously.

Police had only meager clues in their search for the attacker.

Negro Sentenced.
Joe Barnes, 18, negro, Tuesday was given a term of three to four years by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, following conviction on a charge of burglarizing the Rogers Tenth Street Grocery Company. Barnes was charged with stealing property valued at a total of $125.

Beware of pads "just like Kotex"

May look the same... but how were they made? Where? By whom?

THE words "just like Kotex" should be a danger signal to every purchaser of sanitary protection! They cannot be true.

A pad, to be like Kotex, would have to be made in the Kotex factory. Unique, patented machinery makes Kotex from start to finish. Hands never touch it: Rigid cleanliness prevails. Materials used are superior, made especially for Kotex. The only way to make a pad like Kotex is to make Kotex. Take no chances. Specify genuine Kotex. Accept no substitute of whose makers you know nothing. You know Kotex is safe. Hospitals used more than 10,000,000 pads last year. Their choice should be yours. Kotex is adjustable. May be worn on either side. Stays soft.

THE GUMPS—THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

GRAND HOTEL

By VICKI BAUM

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

"There, there," said she. "What a sentimental scene! Grusinskaya weeping. That is a sight worth seeing. It is many years since she did such a thing. Monsieur gave me a bad fright, it is he who is responsible for this painful scene."

She spoke in the third person, wishing to put a distance between them, but after what had passed it was not easy to do so. Gaigern had nothing to say in reply.

"It is frightful how the stage frays the nerves," she went on, in German, for she thought that he had perhaps not understood. "Discipline! Oh yes, we have plenty of that. But discipline is horribly exhausting. Discipline means always doing what you don't want to do and take no pleasure in doing. Have you experienced the weariness that comes of discipline?"

"Oh, no, I do not know what I take pleasure in doing."

Grusinskaya raised a hand to which all its former grace had returned. "I see, monsieur. You take pleasure in coming into a lady's bedroom, and you come. You take pleasure in a dangerous climb on to a balcony, so you do it. And what is your pleasure now?"

"I should like to smoke," Gaigern said frankly. Grusinskaya went to the writing table and held out her little cigarette box.

"Well, smoke the pipe of peace then," she said, and lifting her long and much creased eyelids she looked into Gaigern's face. "And then bid each other adieu."

Gaigern greedily inhaled the smoke of his cigarette. He already felt a great relief, though his situation was still an anxious one. For one thing, he could not possibly leave the room so long as the pearls were in his pocket. If, now that she knew him, he were to keep the pearls he would have to flee that night and in the morning he would have the police on his heels. Everything now depended on remaining in her room at all costs until the pearls were conjured back into their jewel case.

Grusinskaya had now sat down in front of the looking glass and was intently powdering her face. She removed a line here and a mark here. She was beautiful once more.

Gaigern went up to her and interposed his big body between her and the rifled suitcase. Over her shoulder he launched a sweet and seductive smile.

"Why do you smile?" she asked into the mirror.

"Because, dear, I see something in the mirror that you cannot see," said Gaigern. He said "dear" without ceremony. The cigarette had restored him and now he felt in good form. Now for it, he thought, and spurred himself on. "I see in the mirror what I saw before when I was standing on the balcony," he said, bending over her. "I see in the mirror the most beautiful woman I have ever seen. She is..."

And, indeed, as Gaigern strung together these gallantries in his school-fought French, he actually saw a vision of her in the mirror as she had been. Grusinskaya listened skeptically. How could I have become, she thought sadly, with a tearful full of response greeted these ardent words. She turned to Gaigern with a consciously effusive curve of her long neck. Gaigern took her shoulders in his warm and adroit hands and then kissed her deliberately in the beautiful hollow between her shoulder blades.

"I think you had better go now," Grusinskaya said weakly to his reflection in the glass. "The key is in the door."

"No," he said with a sudden air of command. "I am not going to go. You know I'm not going to go. Do you really think I should leave you alone here—I, you?—with a tearful full of veronal? Do you think I don't know the state you are in? I am going to stay."

"But I wish to be alone."

Gaigern quickly went up to her, took hold of her wrists and held them to his breast. "No," he said vehemently. "That is not the truth. You do not want to be alone. You are horribly afraid of being alone. I know well how afraid you are. I know you, you strange little woman. It's no use play-acting with me. Your theater is of glass and I see through it. You were desperate now. If I go away now you will be more desperate than ever. Say I'm to stay with you. Say it."

He took her by the shoulders and shook her. Weak and relieved, she let her head fall on the breast of his blue silk pajamas.

"Yes, stay a moment," she whispered. Gaigern looked away over her head and let out a deep breath through his teeth. The crisis of fear began to relax while a whirl of pictures passed quickly before his eyes, as on the film. Grusinskaya dead in her veins, and himself flying for his life, and a search of the house at Springs, and then the prison cell. He had no idea what it was like in prison, but he saw it distinctly all the same. He saw his mother, too. She died over again, although she had died long ago. Then he was back in No. 68, the menace of fear and danger gone.

The teacup on the table rattled lightly when a motor car went by below. From the hallway came the click-clack of the elevator. The traffic, and ten minutes later the electric lighting was once more in working order on the front of the Grand hotel.

Grusinskaya was silent. The pearls, thought Gaigern, are for the moment with the devil. If I have the luck and all goes well I can put them back in their case when she goes to sleep.

There'll be an unholy row with my people when I return without them. If only the chauffeur doesn't commit some outrageous folly, if only the fool doesn't get drunk in his fury tonight and send us all to blazes. That business has failed completely. Where are we to get money from now, Lord knows. Perhaps this wealthy old boy from the provinces who groans every night next door in No. 70 might be tapped. Oh well, the devil take it, what's the good of thinking? Perhaps if I play my cards well, she won't have me locked up, not she, the little crazy thing. She leaves her pearls lying about unlocked. Funny little woman. I know her now. What does she care for pearls? She has done with everything, nothing matters to her. If I hadn't come all this way I should have been over for her by now. She shall give me the pearls. She is good, yes.

Grusinskaya was thinking. The train for Prague leaves at eleven-twenty. If only there's no hitch! I let go of everything today and tomorrow there will be a muddle. Pimenov is too weak and the girls twist him round their fingers. But whoever misses that train tomorrow shall get the sack, that's positive. If Pimenov hasn't troubled about the scene tonight, rely on me, and he'll be packed by tomorrow. The scene tonight ought to be working overtime to-night. If I don't see to everything myself, nothing gets done. Then there's Meyerheim's accounts. Good God, however I come to run away like that? Witte, he'll have his own head behind in the hotel if no one looks after him. The girls will rely on me, and this evening I wasn't there. There will be a regular debacle. Lucille has only been waiting for the chance to make a row. Their names are never in large enough type on the posters. They're never given a proper chance. But they never do a thing for themselves. If I don't hold the whip over them, they go to pieces. They have made me short-tempered and conceited and tired. Heavens, how tired I was last night. How little was needed to slow them where they would be without Grusinskaya. But now I am not a bit tired. I could dance the whole program, or a new program, or a new dance. I must talk to Pimenov about it. A dance of dread, oh, I could dance that for you now. At first on one spot only and only a tremor, and then three circles on the toes, or no, not on the toes perhaps, perhaps something quite different.

But I live, I am still alive, she thought in a transport. I shall dance new dances and I shall have success. A woman who is loved always has success. To think that a foolish boy who comes climbing in over the balcony can give one such strength! A spoilt child who knows nothing of love but the silly talk of girls.

CALDWELL JURY NEAR COMPLETION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 9.—(AP) With the jury box filled except for one place, attorneys said tonight they felt confident the taking of testimony would begin tomorrow in the trial of Rogers Caldwell, 41-year-old financier, on trial in criminal court on a charge of fraudulent breach of trust.

Four jurors were accepted today from a group of 23 veniremen, composing part of the regular criminal court panel and nine of a special panel ordered about noon.

Judge M. R. Hizer, county judge of Hardeman county, is scheduled to be the first prosecution witness, and others will be J. Dewitt Carter, E. A. Goodie and E. R. Smith, former executives of the defendant's $39,000, 000 investment house, Caldwell & Company.

HAGEN GETS $25,000 AS LINGLE REWARD

CHICAGO, June 9.—(AP)—On the first anniversary of the slaying of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, the newspaper today paid in full the $25,000 reward it had posted for information leading to the conviction of the slayer.

A check for $25,000 was presented to John Hagen, the undercover man who was credited by authorities with discovering Leo Brothers, the St. Louisian who was tried and convicted for the crime.

Suit Against Whitehead Filed in Federal Court

MIAMI, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Transcript of record of the $100,000 breach of promise suit of Selma H. Miller, New York, against Conkey P. Whitehead, Atlanta and Havana sportsman, was filed in United States district court here today.

The case was transferred to the federal court from the circuit court of Palm Beach county upon the petition of the defendant on the ground that he and Miss Miller were residents of different states.

Miss Miller charged in the suit that Whitehead promised to marry her while they were together in various southern resorts last winter.
